

Our Town

By Peggy Blanchard

Halloween's not far off now. Along the street you can hear the first graders on their way to and from school discussing and worrying about what kind of costume to wear for the great occasion. Bless them, it's a serious problem when you're six or seven, whether to be a goblin, witch or sheeted ghost!

And protests against Halloween pranks are already on record in The Press office. One woman phoned to put forward a plea that American children should not be allowed to go begging for cookies, candy and gum on Halloween night in view of the many youngsters in Europe who actually have not enough to eat.

I know this protestor is right, but in my secret heart I hope some little hobgoblins and clowns come to call on me Oct. 31. Only sorry the good old custom can't be extended to include a small quota of Europe's homeless, hungry waifs.

Gues I'd better get off that donation to CARE—the organization that is providing food and medical supplies for children across the ocean.

Dic. Tracing: An ally for poor spellers—or intuitive spellers, shall we say?—is the new Winston. If you were brought up on those stilted, fine printed editions of Dickens, Thackeray and Austen (ooph! that dates me for sure. Well, it can't be helped now) keep Winston around. He uses a "z" where a "z" should be—in the end of such words as publicize. New Webster adherents will find such words ending with an "s"—if Webster shows them at all.

This spell-binding bulletin is dividend of a consultation with W. C. Bennett who came around to see what The Press dictionaries say on the subject of s-v-s-z, publicize -v- publisce. Come in and read our dictionaries anytime—only don't ask US to spell without them.

Sharon Parker, publicity chairman for Netops Council, takes me to task this week for cutting her articles—Sorry, a deadline is a deadline and copy received Thursday can only have a look-in—on the following week's issue.

Seriously, we love having news of each and every Campbell organization and will use every bit of it we can. Copy has to be in our hands by Tuesday, though—Monday's better. And, of course, future news is more interesting copy to a newspaper than than of past events, so we reserve the right to pick a lead out of a last paragraph now and then!

Thanks for your letter, Sharon. I'm replying in person, too. Glad your copy and note came in early enough this week—see this issue, inside.

Dr. F. J. Snyder says Anatole France, authored the quotation we used last week. Others nominate Henry Clay, Horace Greeley and Plato. Quick! who has one of those 1001 quotations books? After a peek in the answer department, I say he was Voltaire, the vitrolle father of freedom.

It's not fair to have favorites, but how I do like to greet David F. Rutherford! He's someone I'd much rather have for a customer than the other way around—

Easy as apple pie? Now there's a saying I'll dispute. Flavouring an apple pie to just the right amount of sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg; cooking to exactly the proper crunchiness of crust; tender apple slices and plenty of juice—it's an art! Thought I'd mastered it until I tasted Mrs. Les White's pie Tuesday night. Now I'm taking lessons. Her pie is really perfect and that's not just one girl's opinion—the whole family agrees with me!

Famous Vatican Choir To Present Concert In San Jose Sunday Night

In what promises to be the highlight of the county's autumn musical fare, the famous Vatican Choir will present a concert in the San Jose Civic Auditorium Sunday, October 19 at 8:15 p.m.

This is the first time that the choir has ever left its four home basilicas in Vatican City to carry its message of faith. The choir represents the finest singers from the four choirs of St. Peter's, Santa Maria Maggiore, St. John Lateran and the Sistine Chapel—the 60 best voices selected after months of auditioning.

It is directed by Msgr. Licino Refice, eminent composer and conductor, who will lead the choir. Ages of the members cover a span of 60 years—the youngest member is eight and the eldest 68.

The Vatican Choir is being brought to San Jose through the efforts of John J. Hayes, leading Santa Clara county Catholic layman.

Tempest In The Inkpot

Phone calls, protests and indignant demands for refunds kept the Campbell Theater management in a mild furore this week.

Adicts of Saturday afternoon adventure movies were shocked out of their regular seats on the aisle to see Tarzan advertised for Wednesday-Thursday, first-show dating set hastily, changed its plans and showed up on Saturday.

Mix up in the advertising copy, and no change of schedule, was blamed for all the trouble by Vernon Balcom, Campbell Theater manager.

This week the shows go on "as advertised."

Rice Baby Saved By Resuscitator

Prompt action plus the efficient use of the Kiwanis resuscitator is credited with saving the life of baby Elizabeth Rice last Wednesday evening. Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rice of Winchester road, is now reported to be well on the road to recovery.

Baby Elizabeth, who has been ill with pneumonia, stopped breathing Wednesday evening and was immediately rushed to the doctor's office where an emergency call was put in to the fire department for the resuscitator. At the time the call was received Ethan E. Lanphear and Homer Hyde were at a sanitary board meeting and immediately rushed the resuscitator to the doctor's office. Guido Scott and Jack Scott were also called and within a few minutes after receiving the call they had the apparatus in use and Elizabeth showed signs of reviving.

After the baby resumed breathing, she was taken to the hospital and placed in an oxygen tent, which was removed during the first part of the week.

The resuscitator, which cost over $400, was purchased last year by the Kiwanis members for use of the community.

The instrument was obtained following the death of an infant who smothered in bedcovers and who might have been revived if the resuscitator had been available at that time. Kiwanis members expressed themselves as believing the apparatus had already paid for itself in being instrumental in saving one life.

Jack and Guido Scott are both adept in using the instrument as well as several members of the Kiwanis club.

From The Files of The Past

THE DIM-LIT HALLS OF MEMORY

By Harry Blanchard
"Backward, turn backward, O Time, in your flight, Make me a child again, just for tonight!"

So many of our readers are long-time residents and subscribers we are impelled to turn back the pages to another era, perhaps nostalgic, perhaps gay and cheerful—perhaps to an era when things did not seem quite so complicated. The latter we doubt, however, as you will if you read on. Ergo! We're off!

In comparatively recent times, the winter of 1933, the Busy Bee Restaurant had this to offer:

Salad—Soup
choice of
Baby Beef Pan Roast
Baked Virginia Ham
(Raisin Sauce)
Mashed Potatoes—String Beans
Drink and Dessert
All this for just 35c.

And Field's Store was advertising butter at two pounds for 41c. And cane sugar at 10 pounds for 39c... and Pillsbury's Best flour 30c for a 10-lb. sack. Shall we stop now?

HOW LONG?

For over forty years the thought of incorporating the town of Campbell has been in the minds of the residents. The issue was a burning one in February of 1906, as you shall see if you read on. In the February 23, 1906, issue of the Press, a letter from B. E. Burns, president of the Mountain View (Incorporated) Board of Trustees, said to the then editor of this paper—

Dear sir:
I have just read some of the proceedings of your "Opposition Meeting" held in your town to discuss the matter of incorporation, etc.

The arguments of Mr. R. F. Robertson based upon his experience as an official (formerly) of Los Gatos seems to me to be a little peculiar. If the town of which he was a prominent official did not grow in population, what was the reason. Was official management under incorporation responsible? Mountain View began with a population of 700, and an assessed valuation of less than $300,000.00 a little over three years ago. She has steadily prospered under corporate management, and we have neither a present or ex-official that does not attribute the advance and prosperity of Mountain View to incorporation. Of course, we had citizens—many of them prominent and well-to-do, who opposed incorporation at first, but results have changed their minds, and we hear of no "knockers" now. Our assessment roll foots up more than a half million dollars, and our town taxes are but $1.00 on the hundred—including Water Bond Redemption and Interest Fund, 45cts, Library Fund 5cts, and General Fund 55cts. No poll tax, but we have business licenses for revenue and protection to our local dealers—who seem perfectly satisfied with

Footlighters Elect Officers Tuesday

Mary Parker was elected president of the Footlighters Tuesday evening at a meeting held in the Footlighters barn. Other newly-elected officers include Eldebeth Hill, vice-president; Leila Merritt, secretary; Cecille Schad, treasurer and Thias Ackerman, and C. David Baxter, drama advisors.

During the meeting it was voted that the group will sponsor sending two girls of the Bluebird group to camp next summer. It was announced that the play, "Believe It Or Not," which will be presented November 7 at the high school auditorium, is progressing and will be ready for dress rehearsal soon.

Following the business session refreshments were served by Irene Hodges and Alma Fanning.

the arrangement. Our population is now near 1500, and increasing regularly. Our water system is now paying expenses—including interest on water bonds, and insurance has been reduced 20 per cent by reason of our water facilities to prevent and extinguish fires. Our streets are kept in better condition than when the county had charge of them because the whole of the 40cts on the $1.00 (that used to go to the county) is now put on our streets. Drainage and sidewalks are being laid at a speedy rate because we have system, method and uniformity in their construction.

Our citizens endeavor to, and generally succeed, in electing capable and reliable men to office in the town, and by them a guardian's care is exercised. There is no doubt about it—Mountain View owes her present prosperity and advancement to the virtues of incorporation.

Saloons do pay considerable license tax, but this enables us to put a low valuation on property for assessment purposes. For illustration, we place a valuation on property of $40 a front foot that sells for $200. If we had no saloons, a reasonable valuation of property at present rate would give us an amount equivalent to the income from the saloon licenses.

I am, very respectfully,
B. E. BURNS,
President Board of Trustees.

Mountain View became an incorporated city of the Golden State with a population of 700 people, and an assessed valuation of $300,000. But they had an active, alert Board of Trade which functioned as a Better Business Bureau. They knew what they wanted in the way of commercial enterprise and they set out to get it. They induced the right type of business enterprise to come into the town. They abolished half their saloons; they didn't start right in setting the world on fire with improvements. It didn't become a palm-lined Beverly Hills overnight. They crept along awhile and then started to walk. The walk broke into a trot, and presto! they were off to becoming one of California's hundreds of fine, prosperous small cities with all the modern improvements a city deserves.

But here's what happened in Campbell in 1906. There were meetings for and against incorporation for weeks prior to the election. Ringers were brought in from outside to knock the proposition. Meetings were held, speeches made... and on E-Day, in February 1906, the electorate voted by a score of 86 to 45 not to incorporate. The contention of the negatives was that they were afraid of increased taxation. Well, his soul, the editor of this paper at that time had the fortitude to express himself this way... "the vote shows that our people are not quite educated up to the matter of incorporation and the question will have to wait awhile—until the matter of a little extra tax won't blind the people to their own best interests."

BURG, HE SAYS

And in conclusion, here's what the editor of the Gilroy Telegram had to say about it—

"By a vote of nearly two to one the residents of Campbell last Saturday decided not to incorporate, and so the burg will continue to be known as 'Campbell Station.' Too many moss-backs who feared increased taxation are stated to be responsible for the defeat of the incorporation plan."

Incidentally, and in passing: The publisher of the paper immediately cut down from 8 pages to 6 pages on the grounds that since the business men of the town were economizing he wanted to be in harmony with their spirit of "conservativeness."

P.S.—He also went to East San Jose to start another paper. Let's chuck that one about history repeating itself, shall we?

Looks like it's going to settle down and rain every Thursday and Friday. At least, we'll have some mighty low fog mixed with our sunshine, mornings.

Biblical Prophecies Are Theme Of Lectures At New Church Building

A series of Prophetic Bible Lectures are to begin in Campbell at 7:15 Sunday evening, October 19. Evangelist C. E. Smith will conduct the meetings in the "Bible Auditorium," Fourth and Rincon, new Seventh Day Adventist church building.

Mr. Smith, a student of Bible Prophecy, says "The Bible is the most up-to-date book in the world and it offers the only satisfactory solution for the perplexities now disturbing the human family."

He promises to explain from the Bible the significance of the chaotic conditions existing among the nations, the threats of war, the struggle between Capital and Labor, the meaning of the increase in earthquakes, tidal waves, pestilences and famines, the cause of the pleasure-bent attitude of the multitudes, the remedy for religious upheaval due to evolution, infidelity, atheism and agnosticism, the future of communism, and the sure cure for lawlessness.

These lectures are not an ordinary revival or campaign. They are open to the public, regardless of church affiliation. There will be screen pictures, illustrated songs, motion pictures, restful organ music and special features each evening.

Opening subject presents "The Birth of a New World," a vivid soul-stirring motion picture based on authentic Bible forecast of future events. It will answer many such up-to-the-minute questions as "What will be the outcome of the U.N.O.?" "Who will control Europe for the next 100 years?" "Will the atomic bomb keep the nations at peace?" Other subjects for the week are: Wednesday, 7:15 p.m., "The Four Horsemen of Revelation"; Friday, 7:15 p.m., "Why Do Men Fight?"

Bucs, Panthers Battle To 8-8 Tie

By Franklin Hale

Last Friday night, Coach Carl Swenson's Campbell Buccaneers met Coach Clarence Miller's Santa Clara Panthers beneath the lights at Townsend field.

Captain for the Panthers was Fullback Johnny Acevedo, while Center Vic Corsiglia and Quarterback Bobby Merrill shared the honor for the Bucs.

The first score came in the second quarter with the Bucs on the Panther 15 yard line. Halfback Harold Orcutt packed the ball inside his own end and into the end zone to score. Merills try for the extra point was blocked.

The score remained 6-0 until late in the half when Santa Clara, trapped deep in its own territory, tried to punt out which was blocked by the Bucs' center. This scored a safety and the two points which ended the scoring for the Bucs. The gun sounded the end of the first half with Campbell on the top of an 8-0 score.

Santa Clara's first score came in the fourth quarter, when the Panthers turned the tables on the Bucs by forcing them to punt from their end zone. The Panthers trampled the punter who was unable to get the kick away because of a bad pass from center. This gave Santa Clara a safety and two points.

When Santa Clara again gained possession of the ball, they started a down-field march. Their efforts were rewarded when on the Bucs' 12 yard line, Russ Wentworth's pass to Don Ferguson was completed in the end zone for the six points that pulled the game out of the fire for them and ended it in an 8-8 deadlock.

Next opponent for the Bucs is Gilroy High whose 11 they take on at 2:45 p.m. Friday at Campbell Union High school field.

New admission rates are in effect for the game. They are: 75c for adults, 35c for those holding student body cards from visiting schools and 50c for students without student body cards.

T.B. X-Rays On Increase

Marked increase in number of persons throughout Santa Clara County x-rayed was reported at the regular monthly meeting of the case-finding committee of the Santa Clara County Tuberculosis Association last Friday in San Jose.

Summarizing the x-raying program for the first six months of the current fiscal year, Mrs. Geraldine Terrell, mobile x-ray unit technician, stated that 14,732 persons have been x-rayed for the half year period. Last fiscal year for the entire 12 months period, 18,408 persons received x-rays on the trailer.

Campbell Court Notes

By Judge Blaine

Incorporation seems of interest to Campbell chiefly for law enforcement. Other reasons there are, of course and among them is business zoning; but for the majority of our citizens law enforcement appears to stand out.

This view seemed to be taken by the Lynch report, for it mentioned as an alternative a police district. Lynch estimated income of Campbell police court at $2000. From what source? Los Gatos report for last fiscal year definitely named "fines $5282.28." Fines mean broken laws. Then what becomes of the idea that incorporation will make Campbell "a law-abiding town?"

Movements such as incorporation are usually put over with extravagant and romantic claims that lead to disillusionment in the light of actual experience. The fact is, as said in these notes before, that all human things have their bright sides and their dark sides, their virtues and their faults.

But incorporation will have one virtue especially constructive. It was suggested about 10 years ago in a little book entitled, Wake Up and Live. The book became very popular, and some movie folk paid the author, a woman, $25,000 just for use of the title itself. Incorporation will mean waking up, and it will intensify living.

In point, it has been complained that Campbell lacks civic leadership of the sticking your neck out variety. Under incorporation some city fathers will have to stick their necks out. Under pressure civic leadership of this sort will be developed. And we have excellent raw material—raw, yes, but really excellent.

Conflict there will be and hurt feelings as with all vital life. But it is always worth while to wake up and live.

official in Sacramento last week by Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie, president of the College. With an enrollment of nearly 7000 students, the present buildings, including a large number of Army barracks, are crowded to capacity.

An exhibit of drawings by Howard Brodie, San Francisco Chronicle artist, is now on display in the Art Building at San Jose State College. It includes preliminary sketches as well as finished drawings and covers Brodie's war experiences as well as his drawings for the sport pages of the Chronicle. Arrangements for the exhibit were made by Warren W. Faus of the San Jose State College art department.

The New, Peacetime Army Is Different! Here Is What It Takes to Join Up

By JACK FOISIE

Four out of every 10 men who "want in" the Army today are not getting in.

Two of those four are unacceptable because they fail to pass the simple pre-entrance test.

Until recently this has embarrassed the man-hungry Army, which is barely making its minimum recruiting needs of 1000 men a day throughout the country.

Now a new recruiting policy has been laid down which capitalizes on this high rate of failure. It came after a huddle on psychology with the civilian advertising agency handling enlistment publicity. The agency, N. W. Ayer and Son, in effect, asked the Army to change billboards in midstream.

Instead of inviting men to join the service, the posters will ask: "Can you qualify?"

This is the theme behind the $6,000,000 (annual allotment) promotional campaign to bring the Army up to its authorized strength of 1,070,000 enlisted men.

On last July 1, the Regular Army had grown to 815,000 men. But large-scale expiration of short-term enlistments, and reduction of men who had served on through the war, was starting to put losses ahead of enlistments.

Estimated Needs

The Recruiting Service, now called Military Personnel Procurement Service ("it sounds like we're less anxious"), estimates a need of 30,000 new men a month for the remainder of 1947. In 1948, recruiting must raise 40,000 men a month if Uncle Sam is to have the standing Army he wishes.

The about-face in policy is generally effective October 1. Building T-37 at the Presidio, housing MPPS headquarters for the nine Western States, is taking on as much of "The Hucksters" as Army efficiency and dignity will allow. If you don't believe that modern advertising methods have infiltrated into uniform, how about this poster:

ARRANGE TODAY FOR YOUR QUALIFICATION INTERVIEW

The Army has economists to prove that the comparison, at least, is not unfair. Most advertising schemes are sticking to more orthodox display of advantages in the service. They are based on the four major reasons given by the men who join up:

- 1—Better deal than civil life.
- 2—Chance to retire (security.)
- 3—Chance to learn.
- 4—Travel.

The MPPS feels it is being realistic: there is very little appeal made to patriotism.

'Come Hither' Approach

The change from a come-hither to the slightly-hard-to-get attitude is good medicine, the Army believes, to cure a peacetime disease that besets any armed service—the civilian feeling that servicemen are scum of the earth who cannot make the grade outside.

Colonel M. L. McCreary, who heads MPPS in the Sixth Army area, denies the truth of that belief today.

"No more going into Police Court and asking the Judge to give a man the choice of jail or service," he said. (After a misdemeanor a man must have a clean record for six months before he can qualify. A felony disqualifies a man forever.)

"From the wrists out and the neck up we need trained men."

(The Army now has 400 technical schools. A recruit can name his choice and is guaranteed it after he finishes basic training.

This program was designed to appeal particularly to just-graduated high school students.

Colonel McCreary, a one-time university professor, said chief opposition to enlistment of late teenagers comes from their parents.

Note to Parents

"I want to tell parents this—17 and 18-year-old boys haven't reached the peak, physically and mentally. Let them get that maturity in the Army."

Then if they wished to return to civilian life, they would be in a better position to compete against the veteran, he said.

"As for health, 30 per cent of Selective Service call-ups were 4-F. And 80 per cent of the men drafted needed some physical corrective before service."

"That trend still holds. It is best to get that health corrective—often teeth—early, in the teens. In the Army they get it free."

The colonel was not lenient with the mentally undeveloped.

"We don't want the dumb ones." The Army is interested, however, in liaison with educators so that the "R-classification" tests, designed for the eighth-grade mind, won't cause so many casualties. Top Army officers believe the figures indicate a basic failure somewhere in our primary and secondary educational methods of teaching.

A Typical Month

Here is a typical month's tally, August, at the central examining station for Northern California and Nevada:

416 men accepted.
119 men refused (this is slightly better than the national average of 62-38 ratio of accepted and failed.)

Of the men refused—
66 for failure to pass mental test.

24 for physical reasons (only one for neurosis);
16 declined after arriving; many, because a pal failed to qualify;

13 failed to show after indicating interest and receiving transportation tickets at their local recruiting station.

The 66 who failed their "R" test (a minimum score of 13 out of 53 questions is required), were interviewed by Captain Edgar F. Titus, himself a fair example of a man who found a career in the Army. In civilian life he had been an apprentice tool maker.

Captain Titus urged all who had not finished 12 grades of school to go back to class and try again upon graduation. Regulations permit men to return 30 days after the first failure. If they flunk a second time, they must wait six months.

Under the new "can you qualify" system, a more thorough screening of candidates will be made before they reach the brink of enlistment. The recruiting sergeants, now called qualification interviewers, have been indoctrinated into the new idea that "we don't want just anybody."

Shrewd Campaigning

Shrewdness paid off in the campaign to enroll June graduates from high schools. Lists of graduates were obtained in advance. Smooth-talking soldiers went before the Parent-Teacher Associations to sell the mothers. Then a canvass of graduates at their homes was made, with little time being wasted on those who did not immediately spark to the idea.

The rising tally of enlistments in Northern California show the result:

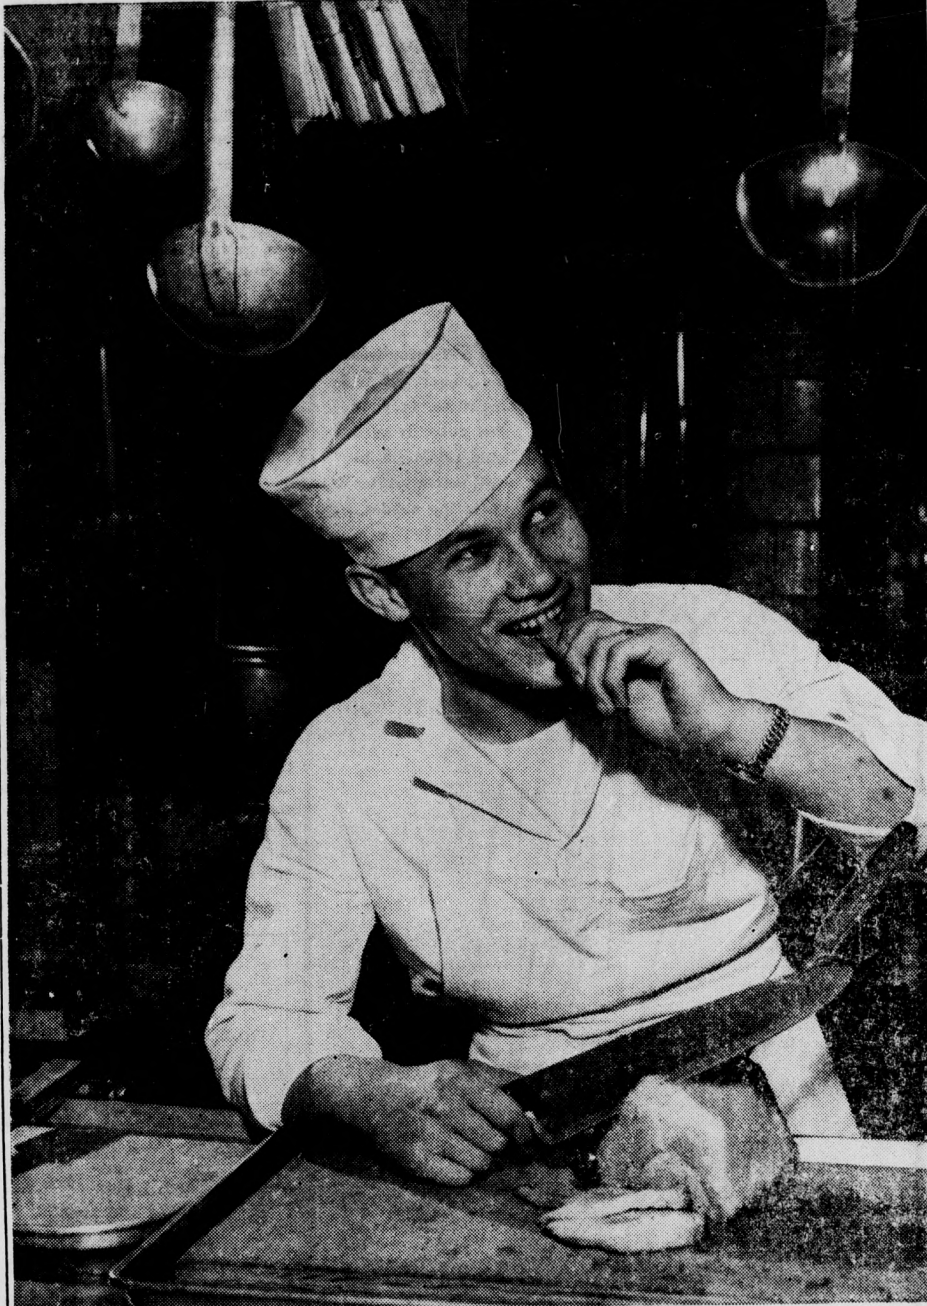

May—255.
June—324.
July—436.
August—416.

The increase in seasonal employment is now beginning to cut back enlistments.

"I can always tell when the prunes are ripe in Santa Clara," said Captain Titus, "but enlistments will rise again when the canneries close down."

But what is heartening to Army officers is the increasing number of recruits who want to join because "a friend said it was a good deal."

There is nothing like satisfied soldiers to do their own recruiting, these officers believe.

Try the Army Intelligence Test!

How tough is the intelligence test that keeps four out of each ten recruits out of the Army? Here are sample questions, paraphrased to satisfy Army regulations. How well can you do?

During wartime a minimum of nine right answers were required out of 53 questions. Today the minimum has been raised to 13 for entrance to the Army ground forces; 17, for the Air Force.

Answers will be found in an inverted box at the lower right of this page.

THE SAME OLD ARMY?

It isn't the same old Army that draftees knew! - - - Appeal has been added by changing over lustreless monikers.

No more steady K.P. Mess attendant now . . . No more cooks and bakers' school. You learn the trade at the "Food Service School."

No more Replacement Trainer Centers. Divisions are being reactivated to do the same duty. The Fourth Division is now stationed at Fort Ord, with a skeleton force to train recruits.

ENLISTMENT OF NEGROES

Is there discrimination against the Negro in the Army?

The Army says "no." By law, Negro enlistment has been restricted to one-tenth of Army strength—the relative proportion of Negro to white in civilian population.

However, Negro enlistment is actually running 20 per cent of the total, and no orders have been issued to discourage further Negro recruiting, according to Captain Frank Marzano, public information officer for the Recruiting Service at the Presidio.

He said there is no restriction as to the type of service, so long as there are already Negro units in such service.

There is no segregation of officers. Many are obtaining permanent commissions.

Prior to 1941, there was only one Negro officer in the regular Army. He was Benjamin O. Davis, who worked his way up from an enlisted man to the rank of Brigadier General.

There are no limitations on enlistment of Nisei youths. Few veterans of the famed 442nd Nisei have re-enlisted.

Here Is Choice Of Good Deals

The Army is always adjusting recruiting offers to the manpower situation within the service. Here are some of the current "deals" offered:

1. The European theater closed for 18 months, is now open to most veterans who re-enlist for three years.

2. Japan, Korea, Alaska or the Caribbean area is open to most enlistees.

3. If U. S. duty is preferred, you may pick your station and be assigned after basic training. You are guaranteed one year there unless your outfit moves.

4. Air Corps pilot training has been re-opened.

5. This fiscal year 5400 officer candidates will be picked to try for commission. The educational requirement is 110 or better in the Army IQ test.

Army Artillery Now Modern New Branch

A career in today's Regular Army Field Artillery is a far cry from rolling the caissons of yesterday. Artillerymen fire rockets and guided missiles into the ionosphere. They build the experimental launching towers. They learn to fire gigantic "sky busters" al-ments until the WAC is made a part of the regular Army.

Big Opportunity To Young Men In Army, Air Force

Never before have the U. S. Army and Army Air Forces offered most as quickly as you can toss a stone out of your back yard.

These opportunities make their job a good bet for every young man who can measure up. You can choose the Field Artillery if you sign up for three years or longer.

such excellent opportunities to young men who enlist in either branch of the service.

Never in peacetime has there been more urgent need for qualified young men to join the service.

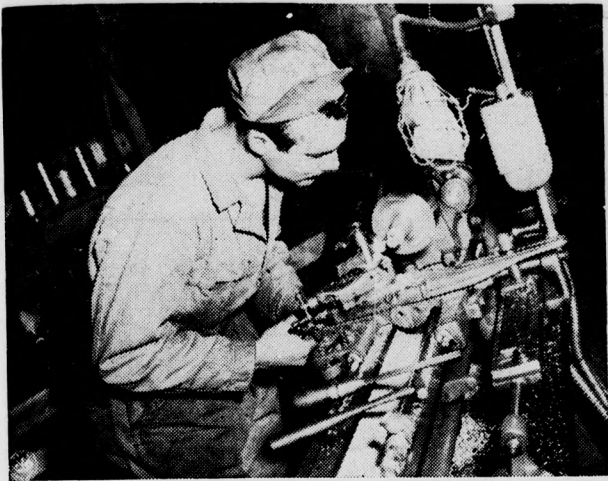

Because of the opportunities to our young men and the fact that our country needs them to build strong military defense, the Campbell Press is supporting the intensified recruiting campaign by the Army and Air Force by contributing the adjoining information and other material from time to time.

Gives Instruction In Scientific Fields To Its Young Recruits

Captain William S. Butler, commanding officer of the local U. S. Army recruiting service in the San Jose post office building, has announced that young men who want to specialize in some of the great scientific fields of the future will find that opportunity in the new Regular Army air and ground forces technical training schools.

"The Army career plan is designed to give outstanding young men their big chance for a fast start in the many technical jobs now open in the new Regular Army," he explained. "If you qualify for the specialized school offering the training which you prefer, you are assured of being sent to that school after enlisting and completing your basic training."

Captain Butler went on to say that one of the outstanding features of the Army technical school plan is the fact that recruits are paid while in school and after completion of the course promotion is rapid.

"A private's pay in the new Regular Army Air Forces and Ground Forces of $75 a month is equivalent to $211.50 a month in a comparable civilian job," Capt. Butler said.

Make Your Mark in the Air!

Choose your specialty before enlisting!

Now, young men between 17 and 34 can get right in on the ground floor of the aviation field.

Under the Air Force's new Aviation Career Plan for high school graduates, you can pick out the specialty you are most interested in before you enlist. Then, if you qualify, you're assured of going to that particular Air Force Specialist School after enlisting and completing basic training.
